

Residential baseline scope decision

7 October 2026 Consultation v0.4 Review 2

Decision D01 is approved for controlled drafting: baseline carpenter registration is limited to residential work. Dan also confirmed continuation of the carpentry pathway and work on the submission. This supersedes the open-scope treatment in Review 1, while leaving statutory mechanism selection and final submission approval open.

Basis and limits

Dan's stated reason was that commercial work was not brought up in his meeting. This is his recollection. It is not treated as evidence that legislation or the government consultation excludes commercial work. The residential-only scope is a project policy recommendation.

The baseline includes defined carpentry work in new homes and existing homes. It does not imply consumer-contracting, project-management or builder authority. Advanced residential capability remains a subsequent optional progression question. Specialist work and mixed-use interfaces must be defined with appropriate professional and regulatory boundaries.

The existing workforce's lawful continued-work transition remains a recommendation subject to the final legal framework, competence verification and risk-based conditions. No new legal exemption, fixed transition duration or age waiver is created by this decision.

Changes applied

- Primary recommendation and consultation implications table now specify a residential baseline.
- Question 5 defines residential scope and new-home/existing-home coverage without additional authority by implication.
- Class comparison and mobility criteria no longer propose a baseline spanning domestic and commercial work.
- Progression table distinguishes the proposed residential baseline from optional advanced residential capability.
- Conclusion and document control reflect the approved scope.
- The meeting record's general-licence preference is retained as alternative evidence, not removed or recast as government policy.

Remaining decisions

D03 is next: compare common technical competence within employee/subcontractor tiers against a common statutory status. D02 future-entry eligibility and existing-worker equivalence also remain for final review. D04–D06 drafting controls remain as recorded in the earlier decision record. No governed evidence findings or confidence percentages change.

QC and control

All 13 consultation question headings and the historical RIS table are preserved. Changes are confined to scope consistency and review version control. Original v0.3 DOCX and PDF hashes remain unchanged. The separate Review 1 draft remains available for comparison; Review 2 is the current review copy. The controlled remote branch checkpoint remains 8309d5006bd260ebbd888e3e4c2c4c9f26298621, descended from approved base 5ffbc77b172938f3a4fda316d552a34b2ceb04c4; no remote changes made by this update.

Dan reported sending the clarification email manually on 7 October. No reply is available in this conversation. No merge, publication or submission is authorised by this scope decision. Legal, policy, economic and practitioner reviews remain outstanding.
